Imagine my surprise and delight some days ago when I answered my phone and heard, "Hi...this is Roger Terrill!" It turned out not to be the ghost of our long departed ancestor, but a living descendant of Roger<sup>1</sup> who was as thrilled as I that we found each other.....Roger Terrill and DOR. Our Roger is just one of the many new members who have joined our ranks since our last newsletter. DOR now has 66 members and is receiving new inquiries at a steady pace. Welcome to all of our new DOR boosters.

I hope all of you received the change of address notice for DOR. A business move to the Rockford, Illinois area has been an "unsettling" time for me, and has also been the main reason the DOR newsletter has become a more manageable quarterly issue, rather than the rather over-ambitious monthly I had initially attempted. It has been a busy time for DOR and it is gratifying to know that we are reaching and sharing with many other "cousins" our rich and interesting Terrill family history.

THE FOUNDING FAMILIES DAY REUNION in Milford on July 8 and 9 is fast approaching, and many of you have reported that you plan to attend. WONDERFUL! In the meantime, further contributions for the Memorial Bridge project were received from Jeanne McKinley, Dency J. Terrill, Roger Porter Terrill and Paul M. Terrill. The use of all of your contributions has been changed somewhat. This will be explained fully in the newsletter.

We seem to be getting somewhere on Thomas<sup>2</sup> and his wives, but still not making fast progress on our Roger<sup>1</sup>, although Bert Tyrrell of The Tyrrell Family History Society in England has devoted much of his time to this project for us trying to verify records and facts that were uncovered and recorded many years ago. This is a slow and tedious process and we are lucky indeed to have the help of such a competent and dedicated researcher as Bert. By way of thanks, DOR has forwarded to him a small check in appreciation for his time, effort and expense on our behalf.

You will notice on the masthead the addition of several state Correspondents. These additions to our research team give us a good base to draw on as we proceed to search out Roger's<sup>1</sup> descendants. Thanks to all of you for volunteering to help.

Paul and Gloria Terrill and Herman Weiland have sent a wealth of research material from their local libraries to add to the DOR research bank. Such additions are invaluable and are a great service to the membership. You have our appreciation.

It is wonderful to see so many interested in and helping to preserve their Terrill family history. Let's continue to leave our footprints in the sand of time.

MORE ON THOMAS<sup>2</sup> AND HIS WIVES

One thing that is always a source of concern and frustration when doing family research is "the printed word." Of course, just because something is printed doesn't make it correct, although just by the fact of being printed it takes on authority. Such is the case with Thomas<sup>2</sup> and his wives. We have located a source for the information on the wives, but original source documentation is missing. This information comes from the History of Union County, New Jersey 1664-1923 by A. Van Doren Honeyman, Volume I. In the biographical section, page 45, is the following:

"THOMAS TERRILL - The founder of the branch of the Terrill family in New Jersey, which furnished the caption of this article, was Thomas Terrill, who died in 1725. He married (first) Margaret Dayton, of Long Island; married (second) Mary Hampton; died September, 1727. By first wife his children were: 1. Ephraim, of further mention. 2. Mary, wife of James Silvers. By second wife his children were: 1. John, died 1764. 2. Josiah, died 1779. 3. Daniel, born June 10, 1707, died December 16, 1793, his first wife was Catharine, daughter of Andrew Craig.

"Ephraim Terrill, eldest son of Thomas Terrill, was born in 1689, died June 18, 1761. He married (first) Mary Hampton, born in 1687, died May 3, 1733, daughter of Jonathan Hampton. He married (second) Phebe _____, born in 1719, died June 24, 1762. Two children were born to him. 1. Ephraim, of further mention. 2. Isaac, died June, 1783."

This information is, however, definitely encouraging. Perhaps another search of the history documenting the bibliography might shed some light on the authenticity of this work. Perhaps it would also contain the biography of the founder of the Dayton family and the Hampton family which would give us further insight into Thomas<sup>2</sup>.

The history of the borough of Elizabeth explains that New Jersey, after thirty-five years as an appendage of the province of New York, had obtained a position independent of other provinces. A petition was prepared and circulated asking Governor Morris, the first royal governor, to procure from His Majesty the King a charter of incorporation for a town as a free town or borough. This petition was extensively signed, and among the first names was Jonathan Hampton, a leading man of the town. The charter was granted by George II, bearing date February 8, 1739-40. The western boundary was the Passaic river from the mouth of Dead river to the Minisink Crossing, and the territory was nearly coterminous with the present Union county. The southwest section, however, included nearly the whole of the township of Warren, in Somerset county. It was to be known by the name of the Free Borough and Town of Elizabeth.

For the officials of the new borough, the charter appointed as chamberlain, Jonathan Dayton and as one of the collectors John Terrill, presumably the first child of Thomas<sup>2</sup> and his second wife, Mary Hampton. This history of Union county goes on to add: "A former resident of Southold, Long Island, Thomas Terrill, a blacksmith by trade, bought of William Cramer August 19, 1696, a plot of land in Elizabethtown; he died in 1725."

The New Jersey Biographical and Genealogical Notes from the New Jersey archives by William Nelson, does state sources, and tells us: "Ephraim Terrill<sup>4</sup> was born in 1714; he was appointed Justice of the Peace in 1768; Deputy Mayor of Elizabethtown in 1774; took a pronounced stand in favor of the Colonies at the beginning of the Revolution; died Aug. 13, 1786, in his 73rd year. Thomas Terrill, a blacksmith, who in 1675 had a considerable estate in Southold, L.I., bought of William Cramer, August 19, 1696, a plot of land in Elizabethtown, and soon after removed thither. He died in 1725. He was the ancestor of the Terrill family of that town. Hatfield's Elizabeth, 272, 285, 410; Tombstone Inscriptions, Elizabeth 318-319; N.J. Archives, XVII, 503." Ephraim<sup>4</sup> was the son of Ephraim<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Roger<sup>1</sup>.

To further enlarge upon Ephraim's<sup>4</sup> "pronounced stand" during the Revolution, we find in the History of Elizabeth, New Jersey by Rev. Edwin F. Hatfield, the following: "The well known 'Boston Tea Party' took place, Dec. 16, 1773. The measure was sustained by the whole population, with few exceptions....when tidings of the passage of this vindictive Act reached this country, May 10, 1774, a furious flame of hitherto-suppressed wrath burst forth, all over the land. Town-meetings were called; whole counties assembled; the provinces met in Congress; and, with one heart and voice, the American people determined to stand by the Bostonians in their conflict with British despotism. Nowhere was this spirit more fully developed than here in this town. A noble body of patriots, headed by such men as William Livingston, William Peartree Smith and Elias Boudinot, men of controlling influence, were then citizens of the borough, and in power. Stephen Crane, Esq., was the Major; Ephraim Terrill, Deputy Mayor.....At a formal meeting, held at the Court-House in Newark, on Saturday, the 11th of June, an admirable paper...was unanimously and heartily adopted, urging the country to stand united and firm in their opposition to Parliament."

Perhaps the events in China these past days brings home even more forceably than ever the bravery of our ancestors as they risked all to unyoke our country from tyranny. Over and over again, the Terrills carried their load and played their part in this great cause. Nicholas Murray tells us in his history of Elizabethtown, "Perhaps no part of the provinces suffered so severely as the eastern part of New Jersey, during the whole Revolutionary contest. This is owing to two causes; it lay adjacent to the city of New York, and to Staten Island, which remained in the possession of the enemy to the very last; and there were in it many tories, who did all they could to annoy their patriotic fellow citizens. And although no battles were fought here, like those of Princeton, Trenton or Mommouth, yet it was the scene of frequent skirmishes, and of constant petty annoyances, which kept the community in a constant state of excitement." Dangerous times indeed.

Inscribed over the south door of St. Johns Church in Elizabeth, N. J. is, "First service Novr 3d 1703," and among the inscriptions in the church yard are these: "Here lies ye Body of Mary Wife of Ephraim Terrill died May ye 3 1733 in ye 49 year of her age," and "Here lies ye Body off Josiah Terrill Son of Ephraim Terrill Junr Who departed this life The 5 day of october 1766 in the 16th year of his age," and Here lies the Body of ephraim terrill Who departed this liefte the 18 day of June 1761 in 72 yerai of his age," and lastly, "Here lies interr'd what was Mortal of Ephraim Terrill Esq who departed this Life Augt ye 13th Ano Domini 1786 and in the LXXIII Year of his Age." They stand as memorials to our rich Terrill heritage.

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sand of time--

Footprints, that perhaps another,
Sailing o'er life's solemn main,
A forlorn and shipwrecked brother,
Seeing, shall take heart again.

MORE ON NEW JERSEY LINES

The following obituary was printed in the Crawford Journal, January 30, 1846 in Meadville, PA:

"WARREN TERRILL. The subject of this sketch died on Wednesday, January 22, 1896, aged 76 years, 5 months and 22 days.

"He was the son of Thomas Terrill and was born at Elizabeth, N. J. At the age of 3 years he moved with his parents to Linesville, Crawford county, PA. On October 9, 1840, he married Diana O'Dell who proved a faithful companion to him for nearly 56 years. They had born to them three sons--Albert, Albertus and Lafayette, and two daughters--Mrs. Mary Pothoff, of Ohio, and Mrs. Nettie Carey, of this place. Albert, the oldest son, was a soldier, taken prisoner and confined in Andersonville prison where he starved to death and was buried in the national cemetery at that place.

"For a number of years deceased worked at lumbering, either making lumber or rafting it on Allegheny river. At the time the oil excitement broke out on Oil creek he owned and resided on a small farm close to Rouseville. After the war he sold his property there and purchased a farm near this village.

"The deceased held the office of constable in Randolph township for several years.

"About sixteen years ago, while on an official mission, he met with an accident that greatly impaired his health since. He was thrown from a buggy and sustained an injury to his head from which he never recovered.

"For several years he had been a member of the M.E. church, and until his health failed him he was a very active member. He was a very industrious person and one much esteemed for his many kind and manly qualities. He was a great patriot and loved his family and dealt kindly and justly toward his fellow man.

"He is survived by a widow, two sons and two daughters. His funeral took place from the M.E. church on Saturday, January 25th, conducted by Rev. Horace McKinney, and his remains interred in the Union cemetery.

"Following are some verses touching his death, composed by a friend:

"Farewell, dear father, sweet thy rest,
Weary with years and worn with pain;
Farewell till in some happy place
We shall behold they face again.

"Tis ours to miss thee all our years
And tender memories of thee keep;
Thine in the Lord to rest, for so
He giveth his beloved sleep."

This obituary was sent to DOR by new member, Eugene F. Throop of Saegertown, PA. Perhaps one of our Thomas<sup>2</sup> descendant members can link this Warren up for us.

Eugene is a genealogical researcher specializing in Crawford County, PA where his family has lived since 1797. He says "I have made indexes of a great many old cemeteries and old newspapers which are very valuable in my research and especially now that acid rain is destroying our old tombstones. My records are important to me because I have found so often that records made by others are inaccurate." Eugene does charge for his service and suggests you send a SASE with your inquiry at which time he can advise you of his fee.

opposed each other at the Battle of Hastings. This also includes all of the Royal houses of Europe, including Germany, Francy, and Italy. Also, the Scandinavian Countries (The Hanseatic League), Spain, Russia and Greece.

This is documented in historical charts of the Plantagenet Line, where it shows that all of these historical people are related. One of the best charts is in a book, by Plantagenet-Harrison, titled, History of Yorkshire. It contains a simplified six page genealogy chart going all the way back to Odin, the mythological King of Asgardia, in 80 B.C. Of course, before the 4th Century, the reliability of the records in the northern countries are more debatable than the Roman lines that are part of documented history.

These laws of probability mean that you are a direct descendant of over 20 kings of England going back to Egbert in the 6th Century; over 7 kings of France, going back to Henry II and then to Charlemange in the 9th Century, A.D. You are a descendant of over 7 kings of Germany going back to Henry I (Fowler). You are also a direct descendant of the first Cazar of Russia, Vladimir of Great; for Ann, his granddaughter, married King Henry I of France.

It also means that you descend from the Roman line back to Constantine, who first proclaimed Christianity in the Empire. (In hoc signo vinces) One could fill pages of important persons that influenced history from most every country in Europe including the prefects of the Roman Empire to the leaders of the early Greek Civilization.

The most revealing part of the laws of probability is that everyone who has some ancestry from Europe could prove, if proof were possible, relationships back to kings and princes.

It is a fascinating story, our lineage; not only back to Roger<sup>1</sup>, but to the whole Western (Occidental) Civilization. We are "cousins" indeed!

HOW MANY ANCESTORS?

There is a reason why research into your roots seems, and is, a never-ending process. In the progression of ancestors beginning with 2 parents, 4 grandparents, 8 great-grandparents, we find by the 14th generation we already have 8,192 direct ancestors. If that progression continues, there are 1,048,476 direct ancestors by the 22nd generation (the time of Henry IV's reign of England) 8,387,808 by the 25th generation, (the time of Edward V's reign in 1280) and 1,040,901,524 (yes, over one billion) direct ancestors by the time of William the Conqueror in the 11th Century.

Of course, you don't have a billion different ancestors, for there will be many that you descend from many times over, sometimes as often as 500 or more times. An example would be the small villages during the early and middle ages in Europe and England where the same gene pool was re-enforced with the villages literally having 2nd to 20th cousin marriages going on and on for generations; all related to the early progenitors of the village going back hundreds of years.

In the 25th generation, your more than eight million ancestors are equal to the population of Europe. Far before the 25th generation (13th Century) with the more than one billion ancestors, the law of probability is in effect, for that large number of ancestors is over ten times the population of Europe. It becomes probable, then that you become a direct descendant of most of the people you read about in European history.

The most revealing consequence of this startling information is that the old histories and literature become alive, for it is your own flesh and blood you are reading about! One can better understand the term, "our brother's keeper," for we are literally cousins to all of Western Man.

Thus we all descend from the middle age and ancient kings of Europe before 1000 A.D. To be conservative in the laws of probability, everyone during and before William the Conqueror is your blood relative; even King Harold and William, who

MILFORD MEMORIAL BRIDGE CONTRIBUTIONS

There have been some changes in the plans for the addition of the names to the Memorial Bridge. In April Richard Platt wrote us in part as follows:

"First of all, let me thank you for the support, both in enthusiasm and money, that you and your members have given our project. But there is a problem, which may or may not be of significance. As I previously told you, our plans for the Memorial Bridge included adding to the stones of the Bridge the names of the 18 original settlers left off in 1889 when it was built....As we got down to the actual funding for the project we began to run into some trouble. We had intended to pay for the work from revenues from the 350th celebration, and not ask the City of Milford for any money. At first, I thought that there was some problem with the total cost of the project, but in a meeting earlier this week with the Major and the Chairman of the Board of Aldermen, I learned that the problem was a strong feeling expressed by each of them that we should not do anything to alter the Bridge as it now is, except, of course, to clean and repair it as we had planned. This was new to us on our committee, but we had to agree that this could be a legitimate concern to many people. The Mayor and Chairman suggested that we return to one of our original options, which was to put all the names on a bronze plaque and put it on a large granite monolith next to the Bridge, and the City would pay for the monolith. I have polled our committee, and they have all agreed to the change.

"I felt that I should then write to you right away to tell you of this change. You and your members sent us money in the belief that the name of Thomas Ufford and the others would be chiseled in stone on the Bridge. I have not yet turned your checks over to the treasurer, and I will continue to hold them for a couple of weeks on the chance that some of you may not approve of the change....."

I wrote to Richard on behalf of DOR expressing first of all our disappointment at the change, but also our understanding for the concern over the integrity of the original Bridge both traditionally and esthetically. I assured him that the membership still wanted to participate in whatever memorial was erected and also in the expense of the cleaning and repair of Roger's<sup>1</sup> stone. We received the following explanation:

"I, too, am somewhat disappointed at not adding the names directly to the Bridge, but we felt that what we arrived at was the best compromise. The ideal solution would have been to add new blocks of granite along the walkway leading away from the Bridge. But a price of over $1100 per block, exclusive of lettering, caused us to reject this course of action.

"The cost of the plaque will be $1875.50, with crating and shipping additional. It is a 30" by 40" and will be mounted on a granite monolith 7' high by 3' 6" wide and 1' 8" deep, more or less. I still have the $78 [now $88] that you and your members have sent, but will turn it over to the treasurer shortly....Looking forward to seeing you in July."

This Bridge project certainly still has our full support and enthusiasm. The restoration and addition of settlers names to the Memorial Bridge was a mutual brainstorm of Richard and Jane Platt who are both related to many of Milford's original settlers. Both Richard and Jane have been involved in the Milford Historical Society for years. Richard was president of the historical society in 1977. He also served as chairman of the American Revolutionary Bicentennial Commission in 1976. Richard and Jane are the co-chairmen of the committee for Founding Families Day on July 8 and belong to ROOTS, which stands for "Remember Our Original Town Settlers." Those of us attending the festivities in July also look forward to meeting Richard and Jane and expressing our thanks for their hard work toward bringing this day about.
