OCTOBER, NOVEMBER, DECEMBER, DOR NEWSLETTER

This issue will mark the first anniversary of DOR, and what a grand first year it has been! So gratifying to see a long-held dream come into being and flourish. This year has been one full of new adventures as we explored family fact, folklore and tradition. Now 91-strong, our DOR Society is bound by common ties and sustained by friendship.

On a personal note, the last two months have been difficult ones. My husband, Peter, though I hasten to state is now doing wonderfully well, had a heart attack and, after several temporarily-lasting angioplasties, had open heart surgery on 20 October. This, of course, has taken me from my usual pursuits including DOR, but know those of you who have written and not received a reply, or a very tardy one, will understand.

Thirty seven of you have returned the completed 12 Generation One Family Line Chart. This is a really good start and a uniform base from which to build. If you have not done so, please try to return your completed chart. Thanks so much.

I ran across an undated (of course) article that tells about a novel revolving around our Walter Tirel who perhaps slew King William Rufus in the New Forest. It is written by British novelist, George Shipway, entitled The Paladin and was an October release from Harcourt Brace, Jovanovich for $7.95...the price indicating it must have been published quite some time ago! Since a paladin is a heroic champion, our Walter is painted as a misunderstood hero, although a romantic and ambitious scoundrel too. Sounds like just the right thing to curl up with on a holiday shopping break.

Our president, Donna Northuis, has hit upon a great holiday gift idea by giving many in her family a DOR membership for Christmas. This certainly is a wonderful way to include someone in your family in your enjoyment of our DOR society for the coming year. Membership dues for 1990 will be $8.00 and are due before the next quarterly newsletter. For new members, back 1989 issues of the newsletter will be $1.25 each.

This has been an exciting year in other ways. Member Lawrence Fontaine LeSturgeon who lives in Charlotte, NC, received Hurricane Hugo as a house guest. And although without power for nine days, he felt among the lucky ones to have sustained damage mainly to his trees and not his home. Ladd Northuis and wife, Rose, fled to Columbia, SC in the face of Hugo and reported that their home in Mt. Pleasant, a suburb of Charleston, had mercifully been spared, but that the roof of their upholstery shop was demolished and eleven oak and pine trees in their yard were uprooted, snapped, splintered or stripped by the wind, one falling on Rose's car. In true Terrill fashion, family members from near and far rallied around with rakes, ladders, wheelbarrows and chainsaws to put things right. We're glad everyone came safely thru.

AS THE FAMILY TAPESTRY UNFOLDS, CELEBRATION IS THE GOLDEN THREAD...
WISHING ALL A LEGENDARY HOLIDAY AND A MAJESTIC NEW YEAR!!

PENSION RECORDS

Pension records are wonderful sources of genealogical information. The following was sent to DOR member Chuck Tyrrell of Missoula, Montana after he requested the remaining documents from Leander⁸ Tyrrell's pension records (Marshall⁷, Philander⁶, Ichabod⁵, Oliver⁴, Josiah³, John², Roger¹). Some changes to the typed document were made in Leander's hand, and those changes are incorporated in the text below:

"State of Idaho)
County of Latah) S.S.

"I, Leander Tyrell, do hereby certify and declare that there is no public nor church nor family records of the date of my birth, and that there is no family bible containing any date of the same, for the reason that there was none ever kept in our family that I ever knew of or heard of. And the only evidence that I have of my age is the statements of my father and my mother ever since I can recollect and as they are both now dead further proof from them cannot be had. My Father' name is Marshall Tyrell and he died in Latah County, Idaho, about 17 years ago, and is buried in Latah County, Idaho. My Mother' name is Polly Judson Tyrell, and she died in Latah County, Idaho about 17 years ago, and is buried in Whitman County, Washington. I had only one brother and one sister. My brother' name is Ebin Tyrell and he died in Latah County, Idaho, in year about 1880 at Viola, Idaho, and is buried in Whitman County, Wash. My sister' name is Rosetta Tyrell and she died about 1862 or 1863 in Iowa. I did not live in any town or city during the time of from June 1850 to June 1860 but lived with my parents on a farm in Monroe County, Iowa, during that time, and we were not city people but country people and lived all the time in the country on a farm.

NEW JERSEY 1790 CENSUS

DOR member Major Lyman F. Barry passes on this information: "The 1790 census for NJ was destroyed or disappeared. But, in 1793, NJ published a census of ALL men over 16 (not just heads of households) who were eligible for military service. Here are the Terrells listed in this Military Census for NJ:

"John Terrel	p. 128	Essex County
Nathaniel Terrel	p. 431	...(not found, indexing error)
Daniel Terrell	p. 135	Essex County
Enoch Terrell	p. 135	Essex County
David Terrell	p. 126	Essex County
Elijah Terrell	p. 129	Essex County
Ichabod Terrell	p. 130	Essex County
Ephraim Terrell	p. 142	Essex County
John Terrell	p. 143	Essex County

"Very unusual, there are no Terrells in any other town or county in NJ in 1793!! Perhaps will will help others searching in New Jersey area. State Library at Trenton, NJ has very good records and inquiries could be directed there."

MEET BRAMWELL⁹ TERRILL

DOR charter member Bramwell⁹ Terrill was born 23 June 1908 at Pleasant Brook, Otsego Co., NY, the son of Charles Leigh⁸ Terrill (Jerome⁷, Hiram⁶, Zalmon⁵, Capt. Geo.⁴, George³, Daniel², Roger¹). Charles⁸ was a Methodist Protestant preacher at Ilion, NY where he met and married Lillie Orcutt. Charles became a Salvation Army captain after pastorates at Pleasant Brook and went with Lillie, Bramwell and his sister, Civil W., to Mobile, Alabama where Lillie died after childbirth and typhoid fever. The family then moved back to Ilion where the infant, Theresa, died and was buried next to her mother in the Orcutt lot in the Ilion cemetery.

BRAMWELL & LONNELLE TERRILL

Charles then married Carrie Edith Woodard and served in the Methodist Episcopal pastorates in New York and Pennsylvania. Bramwell⁹ thus began first grade at Barkertown, NY, then high school at Odessa, NY and in 1924 entered Cazenovia (NY) Seminary prep school. He met and married Saidee Mae White 30 March 1931. Starting as a copyboy for Elmira (NY) Star-Gazette, Bramwell became a reported-photographer and subsequently worked for Sayre (PA) Times, Associated Press in Pittsburgh, Utica (NY) Press, Buffalo (NY) Courier-Express and from August 1942 to March 1979, with time out for WWII service, for the Evening Sun of Baltimore, MD. Bramwell served in the U.S. Navy from 4 February 1944 to 22 December 1945 and while stationed in the Panama Canal Zone, he worked part time on the Star & Herald of Panama City.

Following his father's example, Bramwell actively participated in his church. He was elected in 1946 to the Church Council of the Community Church of Middle River, a Baltimore suburb. He was campaign chairman for the building committee and several times president of the church, started as a wartime mission by the Evangelical & Reformed Church, now part of United Church of Christ. Moving into the city, he was elected to council of Epiphany Lutheran Church and elected president three times.

In 1956 Bramwell joined the Gem Cutters Guild of Baltimore, was its president, and publicity chairman for the committee that organized the Atlantic Coast Gem & Mineral Exhibition, and twice its director.

His wife, Saidee Mae, using the name Heidi Terrill, authored The Square, a novel published in 1949 by MacMillan. Saidee Mae died 6 August 1967. Bramwell and Lonnette Walker Lain, a Cazenovia graduate, were married 13 December 1969. Upon his retirement they moved to her home in Horseheads, NY and began spending winters at Winterset Travel Trailer Park in Florida.

Bramwell, past president of the Eastern Federation of Mineral and Lapidary Societies, Inc. and Lonnette, for eight years treasurer of EFMLS, remained for years active members of gem and mineral societies in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Florida. For years Lonnette was the popular registrar of the federation's workshop at Wildacres, a retreat at Little Switzerland, North Carolina.

In 1988, Bramwell decided to celebrate his 80th birthday atop Mt. Marcy, at 5,344 feet, the highest mountain in New York State. He began at 11:45am and camped at Indian Falls. It rained and as he's left his tarpaulin home, he spent 8 1/2 hours in a soaked sleeping bag. On his birthday he then hiked to the bottom, not the top, of Mt. Marcy. His first-person account, a reporter's sketch and a large photograph in hiking gear, were featured in the 23 August Elmira Star-Gazette where once he had been a copyboy cleaning paste pots.

THE TYRREL "HOLY SNAKE" LEGEND

There is an ancient family church located at East Horndon, Essex, England. A Tudor brick edifice, rebuilt by a Tyrell on the site of an earlier Saxon/Norman cruciform building. The fact that such an early building is cruciform is interesting, as then only important churches, namely cathedrals, would be built in this cross shape. Not only that, but this church has got a twisted cross shape. In medieval times this was meant to signify not only the cross itself, but also the Agony of Our Lord with his head drooped on his shoulder.

The church however interesting, though, was already there before the first Tyrell appeared in the locality in 1290. In that year Sir James Tyrell married the local heiress, Margaret Heron, of Heron Hall, not far up the road from the church. The church stands on quite a sharp hill which rose out of wet marshland that stretched from the foot on the hill for nine miles to the Thames at Tilbury. (Today it stands prominently above the Halfway House junction on the Southend Arterial, where the main Brentwood to Tilbury road crosses it.)

There is an interesting and seemingly well-founded legend about a serpent which escaped from a vessel berthed at Tilbury that had arrived from the Barbary Coast of Africa. The serpent made its way across the marshes but settled, evidently with relief, on the higher ground in the churchyard at East Horndon. The Sir James Tyrell of the day, about 1300, being a Knight of the Shires (the Middle Ages equivalent of a Sheriff of the Wild West) had to put an end to this public nuisance. We can assume that the local populace were afraid to go to church with a serpent loose in the churchyard--and churchgoing in those days was a duty one did not lightly seek to evade, for the penalties and fines were staggering.

So Sir James Tyrell came along and after a hectic tussle with the beast killed it, carried off the head as a trophy to his wife up at the Hall, but himself promptly died of a fever, sustained by becoming "overheated" in the fight.

His heir, Sir John Tyrell, arrived post-haste when he heard of the tragedy. Up he went to the churchyard and aimed a kick at the rotting remains of the foul beast who had been responsible for the demise of his relative. Unfortunately a sharp bone pierced his foot, the wound festered, and Sir John ultimately expired of foot gangrene (Serpent: 2, Tyrells:1). Since bones in a serpent are relatively few, it has been speculated that this "serpent" from the swamps of the Barbary Coast might have been a crocodile as in the Middle Ages Englishmen would have no knowledge of flora and fauna from tropical areas. The event seems to have had a big impact on the locals as the legend was written up again some 400 years later (1695) by a Tyrell who evidently took pride in being related to a Serpentkiller Extraordinary!

Roger¹ Terrill's wife, Abigail, was the daughter of Thomas and Isabel () Ufford. Rev. Samuel Orcutt in his A History of the Old Town of Stratford says "Thomas Uffoot came from England in the ship Lion in 1632, with William Curtis ...and may have been related to the Curtis family by marriage." There are other theories that hold that Isabel may have been of the Camp family. Does any of the membership have any information on the maiden name of Abigail Ufford's mother, Isabel?

GENEALOGICAL PITFALLS - THE CALENDAR IN COLONIAL TIMES

In early Roman days, the high priests were doing a poor job of regulating the calendar. The summer months were gradually starting to come in the spring! Julius Caesar took the job over and provided for a 365 day year with a leap year every 4 years. For the long haul this added a few too many extra days and by the 16th century the calendar year and the astronomical sun year were 10 days out of phase. So in the year 1582, Pope Gregory XIII directed that 10 days be dropped from the calendar & that the day following Oct. 4, 1582 would be Oct. 15th. He also decreed that leap years would occur every 4 years except for century years, which would be leap years only if divisible by 400.

This new calendar was called the Gregorian, or New Style (N.S.). It was adopted by Catholic countries, but Protestant and Orthodox countries would have none of it and continued with the Julian, or Old Style (O.S.) calendar.

It wasn't until 1752 that England and her colonies adopted this change. Since the year 1700 had been considered a leap year, they were now 11 days out of phase with the sun. This was corrected by making the day following Sept 2, 1752 to be Sept 14th. The month looked like this:

1752 SEPTEMBER 1752
S	M	T	W	T	F	S
		1	2	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30

There are no entries in English records between Sept 3 and Sept 13, 1752. (Note: the Orthodox Church did not adopt the N.S. calendar until 1923.)

That all is straightforward enough, but Pope Gregory had another reform which was the general adoption of January 1st as the beginning of the new year. Again, that did not set well with England, as their year began on March 25th. It was 170 years later that they made the change.

Between 1582 and 1752 we are stuck with a period of double dating. In England the year ended, for example on Mar 24, 1732. The next day was Mar 25, 1733, New Year's Day! To handle this we need to know whether a date is Old Style or New Style in this overlapping period. Some dates are so marked. In others the year is written 1672/3 or 167²/₃, giving both O.S. and N.S. figures. The days are handled similarly, ex: Feb ¹¹/₂₂. George Washington was born Feb 11, 1731 but in the N.S. calendar it is Feb 22, 1732.

It was also custom to designate the month by number rather than name. Since New Year's Day fell in March, the entire month was designated the first month even though 24 days were in the previous year! Sept was the 7th month, Oct the 8th, Nov the 9th and Dec the 10th (all taken from the latin).

Another problem occurs because there was no standard order in which to write the days & the month. For ex: 7-6-17 could be the 7th day of August or the 6th day of September. Fortunately, many dates appear: 11mo 5d 1621/2.

One should always copy records exactly as they appear in the original but translation may be convenient when checking the record of age at death with the birth date.

Good luck on handling dates for your ancestors back before 1753. It may require some extra digging, especially in England and our own Colonial period. For more information see the AMERICAN GENEALOGIST, vol 40, page 246 and vol 41, page 98.
