SOLDIERS MONUMENT

In Honor of

Forty-six American Soldiers, who sacrificed their lives in struggling for the Independence of their country; this Monument was erected in 1852--by the joint liberality of the General Assembly; the people of Milford and other contributing friends.

Two hundred American Soldiers, in a destitute, sickly and dying condition, were brought from a British Prison Ship, then lying near New York, and suddenly cast upon our shore, from a British Cartel Ship, on the first of January, 1777.

The inhabitants of Milford, made the most charitable efforts for the relief of these suffering strangers. Notwithstanding, all their kind ministrations, in one month these forty-six died and were buried in our common grave. Their names and residences are inscribed on this monument. Who shall say that Republics are Ungrateful?

SOLDIER'S MONUMENT.

In Memory of Cap't Stephen Stow
of Milford.

To administer to the wants and soothe the miseries of these sick and dying soldiers, was a work of extreme self denial and danger, as many of them were suffering from loathsome and contagious maladies. Stephen Stow voluntarily left his family to relieve these suffering men, he contracted disease from them, died and was buried with them.

He had already given four sons to serve in the war for Independence.

To commemorate his self sacrificing devotion to his country and to humanity the Legislature of Connecticut resolved that his name should be inscribed on this Monument.
